Not sure how engagement and deduction differ in terms of the law. I think some states did talk about deduction but most engagement.

I think there needs to be a choice for listed (off road) (or the ability to select both of them). Or use "both" but I was reading that to mean that both would be used rather than either/or. Although I think either/or is more common.
Reply:
Updated to multiple selection, given this would you be OK with removing "both" as an option to reduce/prevent confusion?

It suggest mental health commitment/hold guilty by reason of insanity or have an understanding that both are covered since the law doesn't always specify commitment.

for some reason the checkbox for "no qualifying conviction" is appearing next to notification completed although the list that appears is correct. Just a bit confusion but not really a problem.
Reply:
Unable to fix - I think this may be a browser view issue - I looked on my end and the checkbox for no qualifying conviction appears next to it (opposed to next to notification completed) only for consistency purposes- if the person has to make a request to the crime lab I am categorizing it as petition- if they have to "petition the court" I am putting it as party motion.

only for consistency- because this was a petition of the court, I am putting it as court order only. If it is petition to the crime lab plus a court order than I am doing both. Let me know if you disagree with them.
